550 MILLIONS STILL DUE U. S. IN BACK TAXES

Government Will Not Succeed
in Collecting Full Amount of Deficiencies

19,000 CASES UNSETTLED

Survey Protests Against Practice of Constantly
Reworking Cases

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1927 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Probably the most disinterested and nonpartisan survey of the subject of income tax administration yet made has just been submitted to the joint committee of congress on internal revenue by the treasury department. From the survey it is learned that approximately $550,000,000

is charged against taxpayers as deficiencies in their payments—more than enough, if all of it was recovered, to take care of a substantial cut in taxation for everybody.

But the government will not recover

it all, in fact only about 50 per cent of the deficiency claims have been collected. The survey also has disclosed that the government is losing $10,000,000 a year in the handling of the cases.

The treasury department discloses

that for the first time since the war

the auditing work is up to date with current returns, and that a negligible

number of old cases await action, most of them being re-opened by taxpayers

claiming refunds.

200 CASES MONTHLY

More than 18,000 cases are pending

before the board of tax appeals and are being disposed of at the rate of 200 a month. Perhaps the biggest problem of all which the internal revenue faces is the turn-over in personnel. The report says that in the last seven years, many individuals have been closed fairly regularly by the bureau. The shifting of responsibility to the general

counsel's office and to the board and the constant reopening of cases as a result of decisions of the court or the board of tax appeals or a change in regulation should be brought to an end.

SALARIES INFLEXIBLE

The major problem is declared to be personnel. The principal difficulty is that the salary limitation and other restrictions surrounding the engaging

of experts as well as their retention

makes it hard to train or keep the personnel, thus resulting ultimately in a greater loss to the government than would be the case if flexibility in salaries were allowed.

Finally the survey concludes with the observation that there must be some method by which the practice of constantly reworking cases, after a fair and satisfactory decision of one or more of the issues involved have been reached, may be stopped.

The purpose of the report is to guide congress in making constructive

changes in the administrative provisions of the income tax laws which

RUSSIA OFFERS HELP IN DISARM MOVE MELLON FOR 225 MILLION CUT

FAVORS FIVE
CHANGES IN HIS PROGRAM

For Reduced Corporation Tax,
Revised Surtax, Repeal-
ed Estate Tax

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Limitation

of the prospective tax reduction to approximately $225,000,000 a lower figure even than previously estimated—

was recommended Monday by Secretary Mellon at the opening of the tax hearings by the house ways and means committee. The tax reduction program he submitted follows:

1.—Reduction of the corporation tax

from 15 1/2 per cent to 12 per cent.

2.—Extending the limitation on corporations with net income of $25,000 or less, and with not more than ten stockholders, to file returns and pay

the tax as partnership or corporations

at their option.

3.—Revision of surtax rates applying on individual incomes between $10,000 and $50,000.

4.—Repeal of the estate tax.

5.—Exemption from taxation of the income derived from American bankers' acceptances held by foreign central banks of issue.

Contrary to expectations, the secretary opposed any change whatever in the remaining war-time excise and miscellaneous taxes. He argued at length for retention of the present

10 per cent levy on automobiles and the 10 per cent tax on admissions

applying to tickets selling for more than 75 cents on the ground that these duties and the excise tax on tobacco

should be kept in the "interest of a well-balanced tax system."

NORMAL RATES SAME

The administration program contemplated no further reductions in the normal income rates applying to individuals nor any further increase in the exemptions allowed individuals.

Arguing for the limitation of the total tax cut to $225,000,000 in the face of surplus of $635,000,000 for the fiscal year, and a prospective margin

of $450,000,000 for this year, Mr.

Mellon insisted that the basis for the reduction must be the surplus available in the fiscal year 1923. This,

he said, is estimated at $274,000,000.

Anticipating the demands which will be made for larger reductions on the grounds that the estimates of the surplus for 1923 are too low, in view of the fact that past estimates have at times been too high, the secretary

denied that the underestimates in the past were the result of deliberate interference or policy.

SETS MAXIMUM FIGURE

"The treasury department believes that tax reduction should not in any event be in excess of approximately $225,000,000," it was stated. "While normal receipts and expenditures

are being balanced, the treasury department is not in a position to set a maximum figure for the reduction."

U. S. Won't Change Indian Policy, Oneidas Are Told

Washington—(AP)—Although critics

of the bureau of Indian affairs for years have been charging that it intends to release guardianship of the Indians, no change of policy is contemplated, Commissioner Burke said

Monday, in response to a query

prompted by the meeting of Oneida

Indians in Wisconsin to protest against such action.

The policy of the government, Mr.

Burke said, is to oppose release until the individual Indian is adjudged

competent, and no action is taken after the release of the individual.

It was explained at the Indian bureau that the Dostater case is that of a restricted Indian, whose restriction

expired and his title to the land which he held expired. The land was sold at a tax sale because the taxes were not paid.

The interior department has been asked to revoke the patent originally issued, but has explained to several inquiries that it cannot do so.

six automobiles were damaged in two weekend accidents. The injured

Miss Mabel Adams, 19, daughter of Mr. August Adams, 920 W. Lawrence, severe lacerations about the head and possible internal injuries

which the attending physician declared may be serious.

Joseph Marx, 21, 716 W. Elsie-st,

according to the police records, broker jaw and bad bruises and cuts about face.

Mrs. W. Raminger, 29, 551 Taylor-st, Menasha, badly cut about the ce-st, Menasha, scalp wound.

Miss Adams and Marx were injured

in an accident on Ballard-rd, about one mile north of the junction with

Highway 41, at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

According to police records, Miss

Adams and Robert Card, 104 Main-st, Stevens Point, were sitting in Card's machine, which was parked on the road without lights. A car owned by the Dean Rental company and driven by John Burke, 1115 W. Fifth-st, traveling north on Ballard-rd,

crashed into Card's machine.

Henry Skall, 210 S. Badger-ave and Joseph Marx were in the car with

Burke when it crashed into Card's machine. Card, Burke and Skall escaped with minor bruises while Miss

Adams and Marx were taken to the hospital by an unidentified motorist.

Both machines were demolished.

Four automobiles figured in an accident on Highway 41 about 500 feet

west of S. Cherry-st at 11:50 Sunday night.

a large touring car, bearing the licence number D-59563, which was in-

Neenah, they bumped fenders and both machines stopped to see what damaged had been done. According to otto, their cars were parked off the highway leaving sufficient room for traffic.

LITTLE HOPE FOR WORKERS IN MINE TOMB

Rescue Crew Trying to Reach
Four Men—Three Bodies
Are Recovered

Houghton, Mich.—(AP)—The third

body of seven miners trapped in the

Quincy Copper mine Saturday afternoon by an air blast, was hoisted to the surface Monday morning, 44 hours

after the cavein. It was that of Arvid Nassko. Two bodies were recovered Sunday.

Three of the crew of ten sent to the forty-first level were on the level

above lowering materials to their companions when the blast occurred. They attempted to reach their buried fellow workers but further caveins threatened and forced them back. The Quincy mine normally employs 400 men.

The air blast originated from the settling of a mass of rock in the lower reaches of the 3,000-foot shaft, which produced a terrific percussion upward

to the forty-first level which is 4,100 feet under ground.

Those directing the hazardous work

held little hope that the bodies of the four men would be reached for several days as a solid wall of tons of stone

and wreckage of the shaft intervenes.

The lives of the rescue workers were impelled by the overwhelming wreckage that may fall at any time.

Other known dead, John Isaacson,

31, and Emil Elitama, 51, whose bodies were found near the top of a huge

pile of stone at one end of the wrecked

level.

A checkup showed the missing men were George Williams, 55, foreman;

Arvid Nassko; Henry Huskoki, 30;

John Kovaleski, 30; and Ernest Schilling, 30.

WERE REPAIRING SHAFT

The men were a part of a timbering

crew sent down to repair the second

shaft of the mine which was destroyed by fire last summer. Five of the dozen men in the crew were sent to the surface by Williams for more timber. While the five were on top, the cavein followed a terrific air blast.

Captain Thomas Maundern, superintendent of underground work in the mine, headed the rescue party that brought the bodies of the two men to

NATIONAL HEAD OF

Chief Speaker at Ninth District Conference

Edward Spafford, New York, newly-elected national commander of the American Legion, will make his first visit to Wisconsin, since becoming commander, on Saturday, Nov. 12,
when he will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the annual fall conference of the Ninth legion district at Seymour. Commander Spafford is going to Seymour largely through the efforts of Colonel Frank J. Schaeffer of Neenah, Wisconsin department commander.

Commander Spafford will speak at the conference banquet at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at Hotel Falk. The banquet is open to all legionnaires and plans are being made to care for 500.
Invitations will be sent to all legions of the Sixth, Eighth and Eleventh districts. On the second day of the conference, Sunday, Nov. 13, Commander Spafford will attend a second district convention at West Bend and will dedicate a memorial there.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

A special membership drive is being arranged to show Commander Schaeffer the district's gratitude for bringing Commander Spafford to Seymour and an effort will be made to present the two commanders with the largest membership the district
ever has had. James H. McGilhan, Green Bay's legionnaire mayor, will present the new membership figures
to the commanders.

Last year the Ninth district was the first over the top in the state and this year an attempt will be made to go a step farther, with at least 50 per cent of the membership paid on Nov.
12. Coleman already is over the top,
the first Ninth district city over this year.

Harvey Priebe, last past commander of Oney Johnston post, will be one of the principal speakers on Sunday's program. He will talk on County Organization. Other talks are: Necersity of Being a Ritual, J. C. Welter-man, Sturgeon Bay; Post Bookkeeping, S. W. Smith, De Pere; State Convention Organization, Fred Stimpson, Green Bay; What I Think of Paris, a delegate from Marinette; What We Expect of the Ninth, A. A. Peterson,
Milwaukee, state adjutant; Shoot, Mrs.
Service Questions, James P. Burns,
Milwaukee, state service officer. Each subject will be followed by a discussion and the program will start at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Beside Commander Spafford's talk,
the banquet Saturday night includes an address of welcome by Mayor James Velch; presentation of membership cards by J. H. McGilhan; address by Adolph P. Lehner, Seymour
city attorney; address by Col. Schaeffer, address by Ralph M. Imnell, adjutant general for Wisconsin; the question box for problems to be discussed at Sunday's sessions; music and entertainment by the Seymour post.

meeting of the midwest conference of the Missionary societies. The meeting will commence Tuesday and will continue through Thursday.

Mayor Denies That City
Affairs Are Kept Secret

Attempts of Mayor George W. Watson of Fond du Lac to discredit the city government of Appleton met with a stinging retort by Mayor A. C. Rule.
In an open letter written Saturday to a Fond du Lac newspaper.

The letter follows:
"In a recent article of your paper
the indebtedness of Fond du Lac was discussed and the publication of the financial condition of the city did not seem to meet with the approval of the commissioners.

"You quoted in this article as follows: 'Appleton is head over heels in debt.' Mayor George W. Watson said, declaring that fact did not receive very much publicity."
"I was not aware we were in such financial difficulties, but such is our situation is we are making every effort to have it published in our local paper as we want the taxpayers to know what is being done with their money and just why the city is in debt."

"I do not think there is or should be anything private about city affairs.
For that reason the reporter of the local paper is invited to all our committee meetings and he is familiar with every detail of city affairs. He publishes what he thinks is for the best interests of the city and that is left to his judgment."

"We are giving the newspaper every detail of city affairs as the newspaper is the medium through which the taxpayer is kept posted as to how the city is operated and what the council is trying to do."

"Appleton owes the bank $186,000
due to the fact that the bank tax case of $234,000 was settled for $135,000 and that $100,000 won in a tax suit from the county is held in trust and cannot be used. If it were not for these

ON WAVERLY ROAD

Pouring of concrete on the Lake-

ing to W. J. Driscoll of the W. J. Driscoll company, contractors. The completion of the road, which is 4.4 miles long and extends from Appleton city limits to about a block north of Waverly beach, was delayed about a week
while the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company relaid its interurban tracks.
Workmen have been putting the shoulders on the road as the sections were completed so that the entire job
will be finished before cold weather sets in. The road will be open to traffic in about two weeks.

The educational committee of Ro-

COME, COME, DORA!
Dora is supposed to be DUMB, but she can get WISE by working this puzzle in fewer than seven strokes.
Our solution is printed on page 5.

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in part, a given number of strokes.
Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes. COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter
at a time.

3—You must have a complete word
of common usage, for each jump.
Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

KEEP OUT OF CROWDS,
HEALTH OFFICERS SAY

Danger That Diphtheria Might Become Epidemic Unless Precautions Are Taken

Although city and school health officials are not alarmed over the prevalence of diphtheria and other contagious in the city, yet they are urging parents to take the greatest precautions so that the diseases will not become epidemic. Miss Mary Orblson, school nurse, said Monday morning
after health authorities reported ten cases of diphtheria in Appleton. Six of the cases are among children and four are among adults.

Health officials are urging parents to keep their children from places in which large numbers of persons congregate and suggest it might be well for adults to remain away from those places until there is an improvement in the health situation. Carelessness of parents who are permitting their children to attend school in spite of their complaints of illness is largely responsible for the spread of contagion. It was intimated by health authorities. Parents are urged by health officers to keep their children home if they complain of sore throats or other ailments which indicate contagion.
The family doctor should be called at once and the child kept under observation to determine the nature of his illness.

School nurses are watching children carefully and are examining all those who complain of illness or whose conduct indicates they are not well.
Children showing suspicious symptoms are sent home with the suggestion that a doctor be called immediately.

Pamphlets issued by the state board of health urging inoculation with toxoid-antitoxin as a diphtheria preventative are to be given to the children this week for delivery to parents. The pamphlets urge parents to immunize their children and explains
how this is done.

SIX POPULAR BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY

Volume Dealing With Social Evils in India Is Most Read Non-fiction

Six exceedingly popular books are included in the new list of volumes recently added to Appleton public library. Mother India by Katherine Mayo, author of The Isles of Fear, is the most popular of the non-fiction. Miss Mayo tells without reticence the social evils of India as seen by an American woman. Fantastic, wasteful religious customs, primitive notions of hygiene, neglect of old age, and child marriage are some of the topics considered.

Kitty, by Deeping, the author of Sorrell and Son, is another of the popular novels that is in great demand. Furman, author of The Quare Woman, has a new book entitled The Lonesome Road, which is one of the best sellers of the season. Yellow Gentians and Blue by Zona Gale is also included on the list of recent books added to the library. In a Yun-Nan Garden by Min is another delightful story by the author of In a Shanting Garden.

An Authors Digest by Johnson in 20 volumes gives abridgements of the best types of literature.

The remaining books on the list recently added are: Stained Glass by Arnold, The House of Fulfillment by Beck, The Back Bull by Bedford Jones, Pharisees and Publicans by Benson, Delia Demonstrates by Bralley, The Iron Will by Buck, History of Greece by Bury, Readings in English History by Cheyney, Jeanne Margot by Clough, Chivalry Peak by Cobb, Detours by Cohen, Human of Bedford by Davis, Janet March by Dell, Political and Social History of England by Dietz, Hugh Loyal by Elliott, Elementary Psychology by Gales, Art in Everybody Life by Goldstein, Caste by Hamilton, Henry Ford by Hamilton, Unkind Star by Hoyt, Book of Little Houses by Hubbell, The Monroe Doctrine by Kohler, Men of Destiny by Lippman, Homes of Character by Mead, Marco Millions by O'Neill, Principles and Practice of Medicine by Oler, Mathematics of Guit by Ostrander, The School Book of Forestry by Pack, Shrubs by Rockwell, The Mind of a Minx by Ruck, The Nuptials of Conbigny by Sabatini, The House of Fear by Service, Flambeau Jim by Spearman, White Hands by Stringer, Luck of the Laird of Terburne, Social and Industrial History of England by Ticknor, Christmas in Storyland by Van Buren, Europe by Wakeman, Jeremy at Cradle by Walpole, and Moor Fires by Young.

STATE "BOOK WEEK" WILL START NOV. 13

Good Books Are Called Well- bound Books of Good Con- tents

Madison—(AP)—Good books mean books well bound and in good physical shape as well as books of good content, the state department of public instruction implies in its suggestions to teachers over the state regarding Good Book Week, to be celebrated in the schools Nov. 13 and 19. The first two suggestions in the list given to the teachers are that the books be sorted, the worn out ones burned and those worth binding be rebound.

It is also suggested that new books be ordered for the week, the local school officials selecting them as they are familiar with the needs of the school libraries.

Other suggestions regarding book week in the Wisconsin schools made by the department of public instruction are:

"Remember that the habit of reading, if formed at all, is acquired young. The child cannot be forced to read. He must be exposed to good books and his desire to read stimulated by suggestions.

"Even reading for credit on reward has its limitations. Choice of reading material by children should not be unwisely directed by teachers and librarians. The Wisconsin Reading Circles are made large to provide for more freedom of choice by children.

"Children should be able to read aloud to others books or selections that they themselves like.

"Encourage children to talk about their favorite characters in fiction and in biography, but do not require such reports as a necessary climax for all such reading. Children should read to enjoy rather than to report the reading done.

"Keep lists of books read by differ-

Waupun Prisoners Study To Help Pass Away Time

Waupun—(AP)—Reading novels and short stories while behind the bars and walls of the state prison here, as an inmate, "just stirs you up" in the words of one of the prisoners, so an increasing number of inmates have taken up courses in the University of Wisconsin, through its extension division.

The education by mail not only holds forth to them a promise of better preparation for normal life, but serves as a means of forgetting bitter memories for 99 inmates.

Not alone the young men with short terms to serve, who might be expected to turn to study as a means of increasing earning capacity when they start their "comeback" but older men who have served years of their longer sentences, are numbered in the group of prisoners who do their weekly assignments to be mailed in to the Extension division officers in Madison and confer each two weeks with Chester D. Allen, field representative of the division. He helps them with knotty points in their assignments and does his best to dispel discouragement among those whose progress is slow.

SIX LIFE TERMS
In the list of correspondence students, six are serving life terms and 8 are serving sentences of more than 20 years.

"One life term prisoner told me," Mr. Allen said recently, "I'll never be without a course as long as I'm in. I'd go crazy if I didn't have a course to work on."

Besides mathematics, English and drawing (especially show card writing) are the courses most favored. Courses in the theory of music and in harmony have recently drawn a number of students principally, Mr. Allen believes, because of the excellent work being done with the prison band and the desire on the part of the members of the band to know more about music. One prisoner's compositions recently were radiocast from Chicago. Another prisoner sold a lyric to an eastern music publishing house.

The correspondence study actually prepares many short-term first offenders to make good in after-prison life, Mr. Allen said. He cited the case of "John."

"John was from an impoverished family in a rural community," Mr. Allen explained, "and had had no training in the use of money. By carefully husbanding his meagre prison pay he paid for 10 correspondence courses which fitted him for a certain line of work."

MADE GOOD ON JOB
"Last year he was given a conditional pardon. He got work in the line for which his study had fitted him. It was a seasonal occupation, but he profited by his prison training in saving and looking ahead. When the winter lay-off came recently he had enough put by, he told me, so that ent children as an indication of the progress made in the use of the library rather than their use at promotion time.

"Some children, few, however, read too many books just for fun. These children should be directed to geography and history reference books in the preparation of lesson material or for more information such as the library may afford."

VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS QUESTION STATE LAW

Want to Know Whether They Can Advertise Classes Of- fered Students

The attorney general's office will be asked for an opinion on two problems affecting vocational schools within the next few weeks, according to Fred P. Lambrecht, Madison, state director of vocational education. The first question is whether vocational schools have a right to advertise their courses, the other whether they can accept students from outside the community.

A Green Bay business college has raised the question about advertising courses and classes in the newspapers at the beginning of each year. It is believed that inability of the business college to compete with the vocational school has caused the protest. The question raised as to whether persons residing out of the city can take courses at a vocational school.

FORMER APPLETON MAN MARRIED IN CALIFORNIA

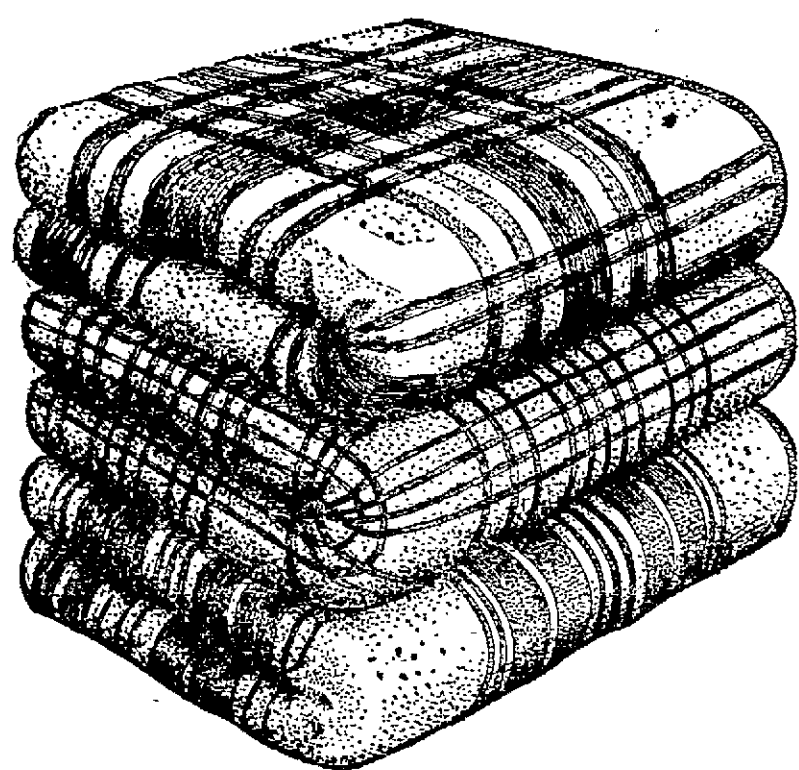

Word was received by Appleton residents Saturday of the marriage of Thomas McGrath, a former Appleton resident, to Miss Juanita Bryant of Los Angeles, Cal. The couple were married at 8 o'clock in the morning of Oct. 4, at First Presbyterian church with Dr. Hugh K. Walker, an old friend of the family, reading the service. The couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

COUNTIES CELEBRATE OPENING OF HIGHWAY

71-mile Strip of Concrete Stretches Across Marathon, Portage and Waushara-cos

Waushara — (P) — Residents of the counties of Marathon, Portage, and Waushara will gather on the boundary line between Marathon and Portage-co. Tuesday to celebrate the completion of the last link in a chain of concrete which extends all the way from Waushara, in Marathon-co., to Stevens Point in Portage-co., and thence to Hancock in Waushara-co., a total distance of 71 miles on U. S. highway 51.

When the last strip of concrete was laid, the suggestion was made by a Waushara newspaper that the occasion be celebrated in some appropriate fashion by residents of Marathon and Portage-co. Business men and the Chambers of Commerce of Waushara, Stevens Point and Mosinee soon were "on the job" and a program was devised by the committees appointed by the three cities.

Shortly after noon, chairman of the Marathon and Portage-co. boards of supervisors will exchange greetings at the county line on highway 51, and a tape stretched across the road along the county line will be cut and the highway formally declared open for traffic. The crowd will then adjourn to Mosinee, where an elaborate program will be held in the village beginning at 2 o'clock with a parade, and led by bands from Stevens Point, Waushara and Mosinee. When the parade arrives at the park, the 128th Wisconsin Infantry band of Waushara will give a concert. The parade, in addition to the bands, will include such features as Big Chief Mosinee, an Indian in full festive regalia, who will represent the city of Mosinee; Miss Portage-co., from Stevens Point; Miss Marathon-co. and Miss Waushara, representing Waushara and Marathon-co. All methods of transportation, pack trailers, ox-teams, covered wagons, buckboards, stage coaches, motorcycles, automobiles and trucks will take part in the parade and the latest type of airplane, piloted by Mark Hubbard of Waushara, will fly overhead.

A. L. Kreutzer of Waushara, will preside over the celebration at Mosinee, and A. L. Kernin of Mosinee, president of the village board, Mayor Otto Muench of Waushara and Mayor J. J. Welsh of Stevens Point, will be among the speakers. H. M. Knoener, chairman of the Marathon-co. board, and Michael Mersch, chairman of the Portage-co. board, also will speak. The principal address of the day will be made by W. E. Fisher of Stevens Point, who will review the historical significance of the occasion.

BROTHERS COACH STAR INTERSECTIONAL TEAMS

New York — (P) — Two other country's outstanding football teams are coached by brothers. Acclaiming Tad Jones eleven at Yale especially because of its decisive victory over the highly touted Dartmouth aggregation, and noting the progress of a team coached by Howard Jones, at the university of Southern California, some fans were thinking Monday that a post season game would be quite a treat.

In 1922 Howard brought his University of Iowa eleven and beat Tad's Yale team by a score of 6 to 0. This year Howard has a young up-and-coming aggregation. If Yale is able to surmount Princeton two weeks hence and the 14-10 trimming it took early in the season from Georgia can be disregarded Yale might stand out as a logical representative for a game on the Pacific coast. U. S. C. has whipped California and tamed Stanford. Tad and Howard were both members of Yale's football teams.

FACTORY EMPLOYMENT DROPS IN WISCONSIN

The average per capita weekly earnings of employees in factory work stood at $25.40 for September, 1927, as compared with $25.32 and $25.35 in September, 1926 and 1925," the report reveals.

Fond du Lac - Otto Labudde, Milwaukee, was chosen as state chairman of the Democratic State Central committee, succeeding John Callahan, at the state conference Saturday. Plans were made for the next presidential delegate fight and a fund of $50,000 to finance it will be sought.

No Price Can Be Set on Good Vision

By A. L. Koch, O. D., Appleton Eye Specialist

Of the five senses that serve us constantly, SIGHT is infinitely the most valuable. Sight permits us to revel in the beauties of nature; it enables us to share fully in the happy events of family and to secure complete enjoyment from the society of our friends; it adds that touch of completeness to all our waking moments, that makes living worth while. Without vision we could not follow the vocations that furnish us with our livelihood and through which we contribute our share of the world's work. The only hope for protecting and conserving this most precious asset lies in regular scientific eye examinations. This, and the supply of corrective lenses for the relief of errors when they are indicated, is our work.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 Benson has been shot while reading. In the room are a woman's gloves and handbag. A policeman reports having seen a big gray automobile outside the Benson home at midnight. Markham traces the handbag to Miss St. Clair and tells Vance he is going to arrest her. Vance protests that she is innocent.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
 Chapter XI
 "It's quite simple, y' know," Vance replied, with a quizzical twitch of the lips. "You haven't your eye on the murdered for the reason that the person who committed this particular crime was sufficiently stupid and perspicacious to see to it that no evidence which you or the police were likely to find, would even remotely indicate his guilt."

"He had spoken with the easy assurance of one who enunciates an obvious fact—a fact which permits of no argument."

"Markham gave a disdainful laugh. "No law-breaker," he asserted graciously, "is shrewd enough to see all contingencies. Even the most trivial event has so many intimately related and seriated points of contact with other events which precede and follow, that it is a known fact that every criminal—however long and carefully he may plan—leaves, some trace and to his preparations, which in the end betrays him."

"A known fact?" Vance repeated. "No, my dear fellow—merely a conventional superstition, based on the childish idea of an implacable, avenging Nemesis. I can see how this esoteric notion of the inevitability of divine punishment would appeal to the popular imagination, like fortune-telling and ouija boards. Don't y' know, but my word—it desolates me to think that you, old chap, would give credence to such mystical moonshine."

"Don't let it spoil your entire day," said Markham acidly.

"Regarding the unsolved, or successful crimes that are taking place every day," Vance continued, disregarding the other's irony, "crimes which completely baffle the best detectives in the business, what? The fact is, the only crimes that are ever solved are those planned by stupid people. That's why, whenever a man of even moderate sagacity decides to commit a crime, he accomplishes it with but a little difficulty."

"Undetected crimes," scornfully submitted Markham, "result, in the main, from official bad luck—not superior criminal cleverness."

"Bad luck"—Vance's voice was almost dulcet—"is merely a defensive and self-consoling synonym for inefficiency. A man with ingenuity and brains is not harassed by bad luck. No, Markham, old dear, unsolved crimes are simply what have been intelligently planned and executed. And, y' see, it happens that the Benson murder falls into that category. Therefore, when, after a few hours' investigation, you say you're pretty sure who committed it, you must pardon me if I take issue with you."

"He paused and took a few meditative puffs on his cigar."

"The factitious and casuistic methods of deduction you chaps pursue are apt to lead almost anywhere. In proof of which assertion I point triumphantly to the unfortunate young lady whose liberty you are now plotting to take away."

"Markham, who had been hiding his resentment behind a smile of tolerant contempt, now turned on Vance and fairly glowered."

"It so happens—and I'm speaking ex cathedra—that I have proclaimed defendant, 'that I come pretty near having the goods on your unfortunate young lady.'"

"Vance was unmoved."

"And yet, y' know," he observed dryly, "no woman could possibly have done it."

"I could see that Markham was furious. When he spoke he almost spluttered."

"A woman couldn't have done it eh?—no matter what the evidence?"

"Quite so," Vance rejoined placidly. "Not if she herself swore to it and produced a tone of what you scions of the law term, rather pompously, incontrovertible evidence."

"Ah! There was no mistaking the sarcasm of Markham's tone. 'I am to understand then that you even regard confessions as valueless?'" the other responded, with an air of complacency. "I would have you understand precisely that. Indeed, they are just as valueless—they're downright misleading. The fact that occasionally they may prove to be correct—like a woman's preposterously overrated intuition—renders them just so much more unreliable."

Markham granted disdainfully. "Why should any person confess something to his detriment unless he felt that the truth had been found out, or was likely to be found out?"

"Pon my word, Markham, you astound me! Permit me to murmur into your innocent ear that there may be many other presumable motives for confessing."

"A confession may be the result of fear, or duress, or expediency, or mother-love, or chivalry, or what the psycho-analysts call the inferiority complex, or delusory, or a mistaken sense of duty, or a perverted egotism, or sheer vanity, or any other of a hundred causes. Confessions are the most treacherous and unreliable of all forms of evidence; and even the silly and unscientific law repudiates them in murder cases unless substantiated by other evidence."

"You are eloquent; you wring me," said Markham. "But if the law threw out all confessions and ignored all material clues, as you appear to advise, then society might as well close down all its courts and scrap all its jails."

"A typical false conclusion of legal logic," Vance replied.

"But how would you convict the guilty, may I ask?"

"There is one infallible method of determining human guilt and responsibility," Vance explained; "but as yet the police are as blissfully unaware of its possibilities as they are ignorant of its operations. The truth can be learned only by an analysis of the psychological factors of a crime, and an application of them to the individual."

"The only real clues are psychological—not material. Your truly profound art expert, for instance, does not judge and authenticate pictures by an inspection of the underpainting and a chemical analysis of the pigments, but by studying the creative personality revealed in the picture's conception and execution."

"He asks himself: Does this work of art embody the qualities of form and technique and mental attitude that made up a genius—namely, the personality—of Rubens, or Michelangelo, or Veronese, or Titian, or Tintoretto, or whoever may be the artist to whom this work has been tentatively credited?"

"My mind is, I fear," Markham confessed, "still sufficiently primitive to be impressed by vulgar facts; and in the present instance—unfortunately for your most original and artistic analogy—I possess quite an array of such facts, all of which indicate that a certain young woman is the—shall we say?—creator of the criminal opus entitled 'The Murder of Alvin Benson.'"

Vance shrugged his shoulders almost perceptibly.

"Would you mind telling me—in confidence, of course—what these facts are?"

"Certainly not," Markham acceded. "First, the lady was in the house at the time the shot was fired."

"Vance affected incredulity. "Eh—my word! She was actually there? Most extraordinary!"

"The evidence of her presence is unassailable," pursued Markham. "As you know, the gloves she wore at dinner, and the hand-bag she carried with her, were both found on the mantel in Benson's living-room."

"Oh!" murmured Vance, with a faintly depressing smile. "It was not the lady then, but her gloves and bag which were present—a minute and unimportant distinction, no doubt, from the legal point of view."

"Still," he added, "I deplore the inability of my layman's untutored mind to accept the two conditions as identical. My trousers are at the dry-cleaners; therefore, I am at the dry-cleaners, what?"

Recommendations of State Physical Education Committee Are Accepted

Several recommendations advanced by the Wisconsin state physical education committee to the national physical education committee at its recent meeting in Chicago, have been accepted, according to word received by A. E. Jensen, physical director of the Appleton Y. M. C. A. The recommendations were prepared by the state committee during the state physical directors' annual convention at Madison a few weeks ago, which was attended by Mr. Jensen and George H. Packard, a member of the state physical committee.

The local men assisted in preparing and presenting the recommendations under the direction of Joseph Horne of Green Bay, chairman of the state physical education committee and a member of the national committee. All but one of the Wisconsin recommendations were accepted by the national body and all are said to mean much in the promotion of Y. M. C. A. athletics both in Wisconsin and elsewhere.

Chief among these recommendations was one asking the establishment of the national committee for amateur athletes and those with whom they compete, similar to the registration rules of the A. A. U. motion, introduced at the Chicago meeting, and passed unanimously, asked all Y. M. C. A. physical directors to discourage athletes in their associations making any connections whatsoever with the A. A. U. The registration program which will take a year or more to work itself out, will be a severe blow to the union throughout the country according to Mr. Jensen.

Another recommendation which was accepted and which is in effect, one of the reservations made by the Wisconsin committee in submitting its application for recognition by the national body last February, provides for temporary local eligibility rules. This will permit an association coming under the national committee's jurisdiction some time in which to establish its membership eligibility, or will not make the amateurism rules of the national committee retroactive of the date of its application for recognition. That there will be leniency in its enforcement, since leniency cannot be considered as a sport in comparison with others engaged in by amateur athletes in the association.

would disqualify participants from other sports as amateurs. The committee did not wish to withdraw this technical ruling, but it is understood that there will be leniency in its enforcement, since leniency cannot be considered as a sport in comparison with others engaged in by amateur athletes in the association.

Our Customers Write the Best Ads for ISO-VIS!

Ever since it was put on the market last winter, letters have come pouring in by the thousands from enthusiastic customers praising Iso-Vis.

Because they relate how Iso-Vis has worked in their cars—because they give frank, unsolicited opinions, we believe they are the best "ads" that could be written about this extraordinary motor oil.

They tell in the everyday language of actual use what we mean by such terms as "constant viscosity". They are actual records of the unusual service Iso-Vis gives. We quote at random:

From a letter written by Mr. W. P. Renner, of Sikeston, Missouri—"I have used your Iso-Vis for several months. I ran the first five quarts twelve hundred miles, and the second five about 2,250 miles, without adding any in my Chevrolet. The pressure gauge never weakened, was always good."

"I am now driving twice as far as I did on other oils before draining the crankcase and when I do drain it I notice the body is still good," says Mr. W. A. Branscome of the Geo. H. Lee Co., 1115-1117 Harvey St., Omaha, Nebraska.

From the proprietor of the Balsam Lake Service Station, Balsam Lake, Wis.—Mr. John Boeris—"I know I will not be able to sell as much oil to a customer as I did before, but more customers will make up for it."

From a letter written by Mr. Floyd Goodrich, Treasurer of the Waterloo Concrete Corporation, of Waterloo, Iowa—"As a result of our test on the two cars, we some six weeks later adopted Iso-Vis for our entire fleet of cars and trucks. Our experience leads us to believe that it is the best oil which we have ever used for automobile and truck service."

"I can truthfully say that Iso-Vis is the cheapest and best lubricating money can buy," quoted from the letter of Mr. A. D. Thomas, of Eldorado, Illinois.

There is another advantage in quoting letters. They say more than modesty would permit us to say about our own product! We suggest that you give Iso-Vis a trial and judge it by the only real standard—its performance in your car! 30c per quart.

SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS WARNED BY RAILROADS

Told to Use Extreme Caution in Order to Safeguard Children

School officials in Outagamie-co have been asked to cooperate with the western division safety committee of the Chicago and North Western railroad in eliminating accidents at railroad crossings over which school busses pass. The work has been carried on for the last four years with success, especially on the Ashland division of the railroad of which Outagamie-co is a part. There have been no accidents on this division in a number of years but the railroad company feels that a warning at this time is not out of place.

School principals and superintendents have been asked to warn drivers of school busses to use extreme caution in going over railroad crossings. In some localities it is the practice of school authorities to insist upon bus-

RUSH CONSTRUCTION OF DAM ACROSS WOLF RIVER

Construction of the Central Wisconsin Power and Light company dam and Power house on the Wolf River four and one-half miles north of Shawano is being rushed as fast as weather permits. Half of the river bed has been staked off for coffer dams and crews are now digging through the hardpan clay so that a solid, dry foundation may be found before concrete is poured. Two crews will carry on the work in another week or two.

The dam proper will consist of a core wall extending from each bank about 150 feet toward the center of the stream, each wall consisting of reinforced concrete banded on each side some coming to a complete stop and some of the older students flagging them over the crossing. This practice, it is said, results in only a few moments delay and will go far to eliminating crossing accidents. School superintendents and principals who have any suggestions on the matter have been asked to write to railroad officials.

with earth. The center section of the dam, which will be 150 feet in length, will have six tainter gates and an eight foot log sluice. The power house will be on the eastern side of the dam. The core walls and the floor of the power house have already been poured and work is about to start on the hydroelectric, which will furnish the power.

TOO MUCH BUSINESS

The modern church is criticized, and not without reason, for resorting to too much business. It is claimed that the preacher of today must be pre-eminently a salesman and that he is expected to advertise religion the same as one advertises pickles or underwear.

What one of us in reading some old-time book has not come across some little church in a secluded corner, with an ivy covered manse and a kindly, studious, impractical, but withal charming, clergyman who read his more ambitious brothers' sermons in a droning voice and looked benignly at his flock through his thick-lensed glasses, and has not wished we might be transported back to that leisurely, unhurried, unfurried time and place. But the conditions that produced this attractive picture have vanished, perhaps forever. Times have changed, the race is to the swift and the battle to the strong. And the biggest gain is to the best salesman, of religion as well as of other things.

Perhaps it would have been ideal if we could have kept religion and religious things isolated, a thing apart from the world that goes speeding forever on with increased momentum. Perhaps our soul would have welcomed a quiet, serene refuge into which it might periodically escape to commune with itself and whatever gods there be, but it is now too late. The church has found it necessary to fight with the same weapons as its adversaries use, if it hopes to survive.

Only one thing can save the church from using the ultra-modern business methods of the times, and that is to remove it from competition with modern business, especially economically. When the membership of churches contribute sufficiently for their maintenance they will no longer be forced to fight for existence; and can perhaps give a little more thought to religion.

ATHLETICS AND LONGEVITY

In contradiction of a quite popular belief an investigation by college officials has disclosed that athletic training does not shorten life. This study in the relationship between athletic training and the mortality rate was made over a long period of years and from a large number of athletes. It shows that of 152 Harvard oarsmen in a period of thirty years 122 lived beyond the average age and that of the thirty who died prematurely six were war victims and only two died from heart disease and but one succumbed to tuberculosis. Two were in poor health but 37 per cent had never been ill in bed and 37 had been confined in bed through illness but once. Ninety-four per cent were free from any organic disease or defection.

An examination covering 807 Yale letter men disclosed four deaths from heart disease, two of which occurred after the age of 68. The death rate among the athletes was 7.2 per cent, compared with 12.9 per cent among non-athletic students.

Here is a persuasive demonstration that the popular notion that athletes die young is a fallacy. There is the danger of accident and there have been athletes who have over-indulged in their profession, but on the other hand health-giving exercise afforded by athletics has fortified others against the ravages of disease and strengthened weak bodies for life's struggle. The one probably balances the other. Wisdom recommends that one take neither excessive exercise nor inactivity in excess.

AN EPIDEMIC OF LAWS

Somebody has said that "the best laws which have been passed have been those by which some former laws have been repealed." If the rule holds good the evidence points overwhelmingly to an acute famine in such "best laws" for several authorities on the question estimate that the United States now has in the neighborhood of 200,000 federal, state and municipal laws. It is self-evident that the law-making bodies have been working overtime and have maintained an effective rate of strike.

One has a good idea of 300 a year. It is estimated that the state legislatures pass 15,000 new laws every biennial. The efforts of congress and the legislatures are augmented by 18,000 municipal bodies which are grinding out new laws fifty-two weeks in the year. Every year the nation's statute books are "enriched" by 200,000 new laws.

A southern newspaper objects to the deluge of laws on the grounds that "there seems to be one law for the rich and one for the poor, and about two million for the middle class." All three classes—rich, poor and middle—complain of a superabundance of laws on the grounds that too many of them are idiotic, unnecessary or impossible of enforcement, ill-advised, radical or erratic, and conceived by zealous minorities for the "good" of the majority.

Strangely enough, the people while complaining of the surfeit of laws and regulations keep right on electing the kind of men who delight in adding new ones.

CHICAGO'S BURLESQUE

Chicago is the natural home of the burlesque show. This entertainment predominates over all other in popularity. Everything that is cheap is received with wild acclaim. It is the domicile and rendezvous of every known species of bunk artist. It well merits the name "Windy City." And its present mayor, Big Bill Thompson, meets all the requisites of such a city.

His attack upon Chicago's school system and text books is a fitting climax to all that Chicago represents of crime, corruption, braggadocio, and swindle. His attack upon the British is the antithesis of his pro-Germanism. His proposal to establish an America First foundation, at $10 per membership, is being received with the scorn and derision it deserves. We have had enough of this tawdry appeal as it is, without a fresh outburst from a race-baiter and ten cent cigar politician. Americanization movements do not spring out of the mire and filth of Chicago's politics.

This King George stuff is old and faded. There was never a person projected it that was not thinking more of an alien ancestry or of how to get alien-minded votes than of America. What Big Bill does not know about Americanism would fill a fair share of the books in the Chicago library. What Chicago needs is a Martin Luther or a sanity inquest.

TEACH TOLERANCE

The schools of Cleveland, Ohio, are said to be taking the first step in teaching their pupils tolerance and fair play toward other races and other beliefs. This is encouraging and hopeful in this land of many races and many creeds.

Careless conversation of adults has bred in the youth of the nation intolerance, prejudice and lack of respect for other races and other religions. Perhaps the intolerance, the prejudice and the lack of respect for other races and other religions are the greater in youth because of their almost entire ignorance and their blind faith in the beliefs set forth by their elders and superiors. However it may be, youth is especially cruel in its prejudices.

It is unfortunate that youth is impregnated with those tendencies. If the youth of the different races and different creeds could mingle with unbiased minds, the chances are that they would not of themselves develop such tendencies. If children could be brought up with a spirit of good-will toward all races, creeds and religions, we might see the day when all people would live in amity and good-will and all work together in peace for the good of American and American institutions.

It is suggested that the schools of the nation follow the lead of the schools of Cleveland. Such a step would be one of the most important that could be taken, and its influence would be felt not only here but in every corner of the earth. Why not try it out? Should it not meet with success, at least no harm would be done.

OLD MASTERS

As Todone I wandered Virginia's woods,
To the house of rustic leaves kicked by my feet,
For 'twas autumn,
I looked at the foot of a tree the grave of a soldier.
Morally wounded he and buried on the retreat
(easily all could I understand).
The last of a mid-day hour, when up no time to halt—yet this I then left.
On a tablet scratched and nailed on the tree he
"the great."
Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.

Long, long I mused, then on my way go wandering,
Many a thenceful season to follow, and many a year of life.
Yet at times, through changeful season and scene,
Abrupt, alone, or in the crowded street,
Comes before me the unknown soldier's grave,
Comes the inscription made in Virginia's woods.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Article No. 1
This year, as usual at this season of year, there are a number of cases of infantile paralysis (acute poliomyelitis) here and there throughout the country. No plausible explanation has been offered for this seasonal prevalence of the disease, unless it be that poliomyelitis, like typhoid fever, is an infection to which victims are most exposed while on summer vacations or traveling abroad, and the illness develops after the autumn return home to school or work.

The virus or germ, if it is a germ, of the disease is too small to be seen with the microscope, and will pass through the finest porcelain filter. But that a virus is the cause has been fairly well demonstrated by inoculation experiments on monkeys. Monkeys are apparently the only animals that are susceptible to infantile paralysis.

Eight out of ten cases occur in children under five years of age, but sometimes youths are victims and occasionally an adult. About seven cases from July to October is a considerable number of cases the illness runs its course without producing or leaving any definite paralysis, and such cases are consequently likely to escape recognition and hence to become sources of danger through infecting persons who do not suspect the nature of the illness. Likewise these abortive or non-paralytic cases furnish a certain number of undetected "carriers" who may innocently spread the disease to susceptible persons weeks or months after the illness. Bearing in mind that we have not identified the germ, and hence we can only give the opinion of physicians who have had experience, and special study of the disease, the belief prevails that in some instances healthy persons who have been in close contact with the patient ill of poliomyelitis may carry the disease to a third person. This belief, to my mind, is far fetched, but it appears to be the only explanation for certain outbreaks.

At worst, infantile paralysis is only feebly contagious, for we know that only a small proportion of persons exposed to it contract the disease.

A recent outbreak in a boys' summer camp illustrates this very well. Two boys developed what the camp doctor called laryngitis. Their companions or tent-mates nursed and cared for them intimately for several days before the illness was recognized as infantile paralysis, yet none of these exposed boys developed the disease. When the character of the illness was recognized, all the exposed boys were isolated at home for 14 days. That was a wise precaution. The incubation period (time from exposure to development of first symptoms) is eight to twelve days in most cases.

Infantile paralysis is most probably one of the respiratory infections, that is to say, the virus or germ gains entrance to the body through the throat lining or lining of the nasal cavity, and is given off mainly in the secretions or discharges from the patient's nose and throat.

There is no method available by which a physician can make a positive diagnosis of the disease until the patient has recovered. My rule does not occur until the third or fourth day of illness. Thus, unless the previous occurrence of other cases in the community has put the doctor on guard, on the alert, he can only tell in the onset of the illness that it is some sort of common respiratory infection—and watch for the outcome.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This Man Doesn't Know His Vegetables
My Husband declares that if one eats cucumbers without soaking them in salt water over night, they will poison one. My sister-in-law says to drink milk after eating cucumbers is sure death—she knew a girl who died that way. . . . My husband wants me to feed our three-months old baby raw onions. (Mrs. F. A.)

Answer—The notions about eating cucumbers, or drinking milk soon after eating cucumbers, are just superstitions. It would be rather dangerous to feed the baby onions. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for feeding the baby.
Bacteria for Whooping Cough
Will vaccine shorten the cough stage of whooping cough or make it less severe? Is it beneficial after the patient begins to whoop? How often should it be given to a child aged 10 months? (G. M.)

Answer—It isn't vaccine, but a bacteria, that is used for the whooping cough. The earlier it is given the better the effect. Even after the whoop begins the bacteria usually moderates the severity and shortens the duration of the illness. Only the doctor examining the baby can tell how often the bacteria should be given.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

A CASE OF DIRECT INSPIRATION?

We speak glibly of an "inspired" work of art. Usually we mean merely that it is a work of art and the word "inspired" is superfluous. When we say an author was "inspired" when he wrote a given book or poem, do we mean that some outside power dictated the book to him? A few mystics may mean that, but usually we probably don't mean much of anything. Fundamentalists of course mean that when they speak of inspiration in connection with the Bible, but even they do not as a rule give that meaning to the word "inspiration" in connection with so-called "secular" literature.

Recently I came across a description by an author of something that in less scientific times might have been regarded as a genuine case of direct inspiration. Curiously enough it was Olive Schreiner, author of "The Story of an African Farm" and "From Man to Man," who had this experience. Olive Schreiner was thoroughly in sympathy with the scientific spirit of her time and she did not easily yield to mystic theories of direct inspiration or of anything else of that nature.

In October, 1909, she wrote from Capetown, South Africa, to a friend Mrs. Francis Smith about "The Prelude" during all those years forming little scenes, putting together little incidents, stray thoughts. As this continued she felt a certain continuity about her childhood, even though she did not definitely think of this. Again, it is very common for grownup people to perceive, as the years go by, a kind of pattern in their childhood experiences. There is nothing unusual in that. Then one day the thoughts came to her like a flash that her childhood experiences would make a story, even an allegory. All that remained was to write them down.

That is probably the explanation of every alleged case of "direct inspiration." In many cases the steps by which it came cannot be traced.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

MANY ILLS OF WORKERS EASILY PREVENTABLE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor of Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Out of almost 14,000,000 insured workers in Great Britain between 45 per cent and 50 per cent were ill at one time or another during the year, and in some districts the percentage of illness rose as high as 50 per cent.

This means that the equivalent of one man's work was lost by each of 4,000,000 persons. The records do not take account of illness of three days' duration or less, nor of the inefficiency and loss due to chronic or vague ill-health which the worker tolerates and for which he does not seek relief or compensation.

All of the nations of the world are giving increasing attention to the care of the health of the worker, because men are only beginning to realize what a tremendous economic drain illness is.

THE COMMON COLD

As pointed out by Dr. Leonard P. Lockhart, medical officer of the great firm in England known as the Doots Pure Dye Co., 20 per cent of the loss of time of workers in 1924, which was an extraordinary year, was due to the common cold. 1 per cent to influenza and 10 per cent to tuberculosis. 12 per cent to pneumonia, 10 per cent to diphtheria and 7 per cent to other infections. This nearly 60 per cent of all the difficulties and the figures for the United States would be about the same, are due to conditions that are largely preventable.

Dr. Lockhart explains simply his conception of the manner in which had ventilation is related to the causation of colds. The employee works in hot stagnant air which causes the membranes lining the air passages to become relaxed and engorged with blood. On this spongy membrane the germs settle.

MEMBRANES CONTRACT.
Then when the individual goes out into the cold air, the membranes become tense and contract, imprisoning the germs in the crypts. There, where it is warm and moist, they propagate and produce infections. The difficulty can be lessened by having the workers in a cool environment with warm feet and cool heads.

Heating arrangements should have for their ideal the warming of the lower layers of air in the room. The warm air rises. Fans and other ventilating devices can keep it circulating.

Regardless of the notions held by some health teachers, the majority of epidemics incline to the view that the cold draught is not infrequently associated with catching cold.

Windows may be opened while before work and during the noon hour to ventilate the rooms thoroughly, but proper care should be provided during working hours to keep off cold draughts.

A NEW YORKER IN PARIS

By Gilbert Swan

Paris—In the copybooks, when I was a child at school, there appeared a sentence which we had to write and rewrite many times and which thus has been cemented to my memory. It read: "The French are a thrifty people."

And, after a week in Paris, I know I never again shall be able to laugh at a Scotch story.

For instance: In the rooms of French hotels are two electric lights. But such are the connections that it is impossible to have them both lighted at the same time. Press one button and the other light goes out; press the other button and the first in wash basins and such they will not trust you with the lights. The light flashes on only when you turn the lock. When you unlatch the door it automatically goes out.

And in the hallways of the French hotels—excepting, of course, the most expensive—the lights go out between 10 and 11 o'clock at night. If you wish to go upstairs or down there is a switch arrangement that keeps a hall light burning for two or three minutes, and then automatically extinguishes it. They take no chances with waste.

Scores of taxi drivers knock off duty around the noon hour, and again around midnight—but they go home. And unless you happen to be going their way they will turn you over to another driver. The other night, I hailed half a dozen drivers before I got one who would accommodate me. Finally I just mentioned my address and an overjoyed old fellow all but caressed me on either cheek because I was going but a few blocks from his home.

The reason, I later found, is that they have to buy their own gasoline and won't drive the taxi home unless they have a fare. Further, they insist on eating their noon meal at home to save money.

Yet a New York taxi-driver to quit work at noon and drive home for lunch and see what happens!

In but one of the big French stores have I seen a cash-register. They still operate through a centrally located bookkeeper who jots down the sales. And the customer has to wait until she has properly arranged her debits and credits.

Incidentally the one place I saw a cash-register, also had a central bookkeeper to make sure that the cash register didn't make any mistakes. Or perhaps it was vice-versa.

When the shops are closed for an hour or more at lunch-time so the proprietor can go home to eat, all clerks must be out of the place. The French merchant, they tell me, will not trust his stock and money to his help. Yet I have never gone to a more honest people. The number of robberies, hold-ups, petty thefts and such are less than in an average small American town. Yet they tell you this is the wickedest city in the world.

Compared to Manhattan, Paris seems to me almost lily-white. Its "wickedness" consists in the freedom it allows its citizens and visitors. Yet I have never gone to a more honest people. The number of robberies, hold-ups, petty thefts and such are less than in an average small American town. Yet they tell you this is the wickedest city in the world.

Manhattan gives you all the wine, women and song you want, but you can hear the reverberation from 38th street to Columbus Circle.

Nothing is more noticeable than a loose-fitting collar that falls away from the neck. A snug-setting collar completes a good-fitting coat. When you buy your suit from the maker the shoulders are carefully patterned and pressed to shape. Both right and left sides of each has its own individuality. These should be maintained if you want your coat to look its best.

You know that it is impossible to secure a form-fitting press when your suit is ironed or flat-pressed; if there is any question about this, just look at your suit. Notice how the collar is shaped—see how the shoulders are formed—look at the contour of the front. You can readily see that a flat press cannot finish these parts properly.

Keep Your Suit New!

By using our Formprest Service you will be sure that your suit fits as well as when new. It will look better and last longer. Formpressing costs no more than ordinary ironing—but it is worth many times what you pay for it! Try it—you will always insist upon it. Come in and see this battery of presses in operation. Call on us at any time.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Q UITE well the Tynmites all loved under the fish head they'd picked. When they had finished eating, some rose and shook their heads. "Well, I am sure tired out," said one. "I know just where we ought to be. The place for us now is in our bed."

Just then their pet goat came nearby and Clowmy cried, "I believe I'll try to ride upon his back a while before I go to sleep. If I was sure I'd stay round here, there wouldn't be a thing to fear. But he might try to climb that hill over yonder. It's too steep."

"On my back?" said the goat. "Where's your back?" said Clowmy. "Why not try your luck?" But first we ought to lead him. He has had no food since noon. He then walked up to Mister Goat and put his arms around his throat and led him to a grass field where he filled up very soon.

"Well, well," said Clowmy. "Seems somehow, you should be feeling better now. Wee Clowmy wants a little ride. Let's go and give him one." So back they went, to join the rest and Clowmy as you may have guessed, was waiting for his goat ride so that he could have some fun.

The goat was held still in his track while Clowmy nipped upon his back. And then he times let him loose, "I go," wee Clowmy said. "And I may land upon my head." Just then the goat perked up a bit and ran with all his might.

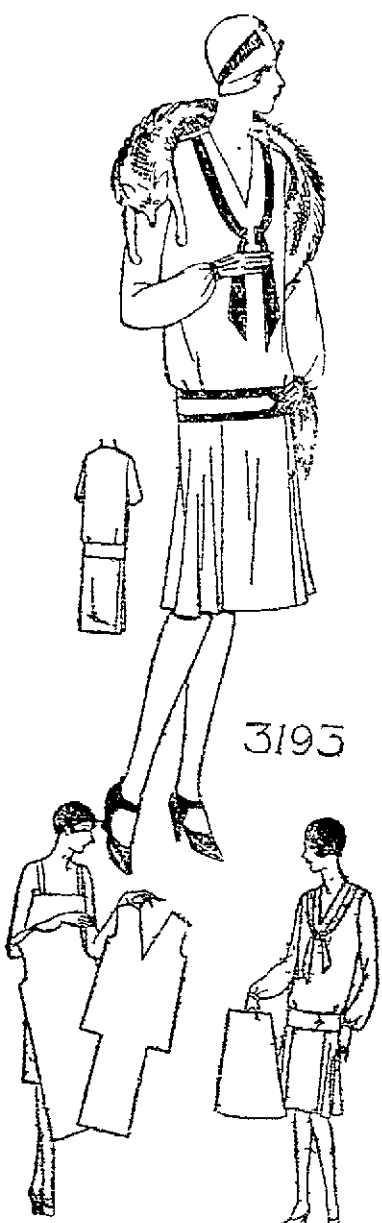

"Hey hey," cried Clowmy. "He's gone mad. I'm surely an unlucky child. Somebody better stop him, or I'll get an awful bump." For just a moment, 'twas real sport and then the goat stopped short. Poor Clowmy, few right over his head and landed with a thump.

BATTERED DOLLS HAVE FACES LIFTED; BLIND DOLLS MADE TO SEE--STRAIGHT HAIR CURLED

By NEA Service
NEW YORK--New York now has a rehabilitation station and beauty parlor for dolls that need rejuvenation.

Their little faces are lifted, twisted arms and legs are straightened, bodies are given new curves with new saw dust, snarled hair is combed out and given a permanent. More serious ailments are treated too. Arms and legs are added where none exist now. Eyes gleam anew in sockets that have been empty.

LITTLE ORPHANS GET THEM!

All these wonders go on each day in the interest of philanthropy. For the station is run by the National Thanks giving Doll Offering Committee composed of women who loved dolls so much in their childhood days that they can't bear to think there are little girls in America who have no dolls of their own to cuddle.

The pretty dolls that they turn out are sent on Thanksgiving Day to orphans all over the United States.

Last year they made 38,000 little girls and boys happy on Thanksgiving Day. This year they want 100,000 dolls contributed. They will fix them up, dress them and send them.

There is no telling just where this Mamma doll or that little picky little doll will take happiness for the organization is non-sectarian and draws no creed or color line. They send dolls to every orphanage that applies for them.

Mrs. Lina McCleedy, president of the New York University Alumnae club, is chairman of the doll committee and helping her are members of all the women's clubs in the city. They cooperate with women's clubs in cities where orphanages are located, collect discarded dolls and distribute them rejuvenated, through these local clubs.

ANY DOLL CAN BE RECLAIMED

No doll is too worn-out to be made over into one that will take joy to a child that has nothing in the world to call its own and love. They are asking that children and their mothers look through the garrets and store-rooms and send in all dolls that are no longer used. They guarantee to make a pretty doll of the oldest and the worst looking. They know, from experience of past years, how much more happiness than a turkey dinner, even, a doll takes to a child.

All dolls contributed should be sent to the committee, 15 East 40th street, New York.

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

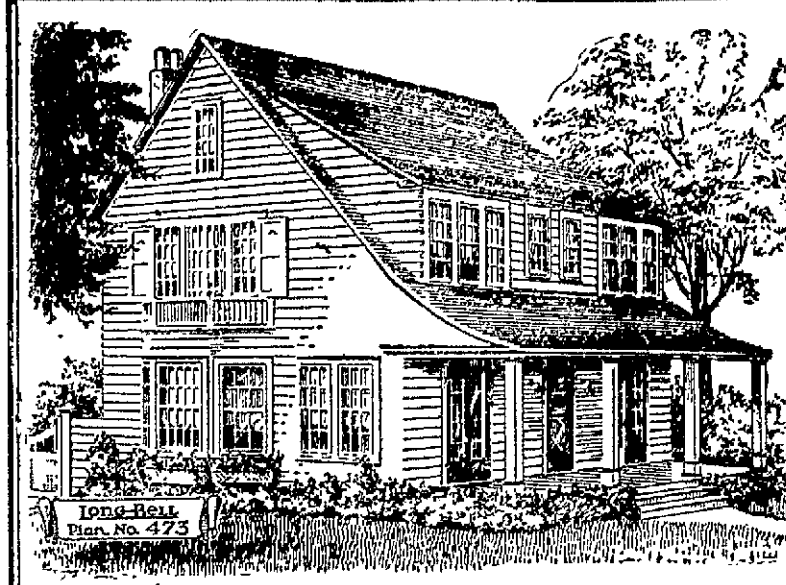

Brooklyn, New York--Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run down condition and could not do her house work. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives.

"I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state--perhaps in your town--who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

WHY DO WE NO LONGER SING?

By OLIVE ROBERTS CARTON

WHY do we no longer sing? I have never seen the children love to sing as they used to. They used to sing in the street, in the park, in the school, in the church. They used to sing to each other, to their mothers, to their fathers. They used to sing to the stars and to the moon. They used to sing to the wind and to the rain. This week we will illustrate our topic with ten hands in each of which the question will be whether to double or not to double. Hands 1 and 2 appear today; their answers will be given tomorrow together with hands 3 and 4, and each succeeding day this week we shall have two new hands and two explanations.

The reader who follows this series to its end on Saturday never again should be in doubt as to whether a double, a pass or a bid is the best declaration with any given hand in a given situation.

Each day's hands will be accompanied by the usual answer blanks so that the usual tests and contests will be possible.

that our establishment is expensive is logical, considering its standing and what it embodies.

But facts belie the impression. The beauty of our service remains unchanged, whether the cost is great or small.

The dignity, the comforting loveliness, the skill bred of long experience—these are our responsibilities, the expense is for you to decide.

Personal Helps

In addition to the Melody Way lessons that will appear weekly in the Post-Crescent, arrangements have been made for personal helps. Expert instructors will be made available for those who desire this help, to answer questions and give such information as may be desired. There will be no compulsion to make use of this personal instruction and it will be easily possible to learn to play the piano solely from the lessons printed in The Post-Crescent.

You Don't Need A Piano

The Melody way of learning to play the piano does not require you to have a piano to practice your lessons, although you will find that as you advance in your course that a piano will make your lessons easier. Arrangements no doubt will be made to provide pianos for those who haven't them in the personal instruction classes which will be formed. Preparations for the classes in Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and possibly in other cities are going forward and within a short time arrangements will be complete and pianos will be available for everyone. But whether you have a piano you shouldn't pass up this opportunity to learn to play the piano because the opportunity may not be presented again to learn to play with so little effort.

EVERYBODY CAN LEARN

Every reader of The Post-Crescent is eligible and is invited to make use of the Melody Way lessons which will be printed each Wednesday beginning with Nov. 2. Remember there is no charge of any kind connected with the lessons and that every person, regardless of age can easily learn to play the piano if he is willing to give a little time. Thousands of persons all over the country have learned to play this marvelous way. You can too.

WANTED TO FIND
HAVE TALENT

Learn to Play the Piano in 12 Easy Lessons

The Melody Way piano lessons will appear in The Appleton Post-Crescent every Wednesday beginning with Nov. 2 until the course of twelve lessons is completed. At the expiration of that period those who have applied themselves diligently to these lessons will be able to play simple music with both hands.

200,000 Pupils

It sounds like an almost impossible accomplishment to learn to play the piano in twelve lessons, but the proof of the pudding is in the eating. More than 200,000 persons of all ages, from youngsters 7 to 70, have learned how to play with this system and have enjoyed learning. Age is no limitation and everyone will be able to play if he will but follow the lessons carefully and do the necessary practicing.

But the finger-breaking and back-breaking exercises which made the old method of learning to play so difficult and so tiresome are not necessary under the Melody Way. You start right out by playing a piece and each week you will receive a new selection. In that way you will learn to play a new selection each week and at the end of twelve weeks you will be able to sit at the piano and play any of the simple pieces found in hymn books and in song books. If the study is continued after that it will be only a short time before you will be able to play the popular music of the day.

Lessons Are Free

No charge of any kind is made for the lessons. They are free to all readers of The Post-Crescent and every person is invited to use them. Clip out the chart printed on these pages, mount it on heavy cardboard and you will be ready to start. This chart which is a miniature keyboard of a piano, is all that is necessary to learn. Of course if you have a piano it will be nicer but it is not necessary. The keyboard will provide the opportunity for practice and for putting into effect the lessons of Melody Way.

Thousands of persons who have taken the course have written to W. Otto Miessner, the originator, thanking him for the opportunity of learning how to play the piano.

Clip out the chart of The Post-Crescent Melody Way piano lessons. Be sure to save it.
MELODY WAY STAFF AND KEYBOARD

For Winter Evenings

It is particularly appropriate that the lessons are started at the approach of cold weather for the Melody Way of learning to play the piano will provide splendid diversion for the long winter evenings. In almost every home two to five persons will take the lessons and it will be pleasant to watch each other's progress in the work. You will find in the first lesson that learning to play the piano is only half as difficult as you had anticipated and you will get real enjoyment while you are learning.

All Readers Invited

The Melody Way lessons in The Post-Crescent are not alone for Appleton readers but for every person who sees this newspaper. It is just as easy to learn to play the piano by this method in the farm home as in the school room and location should not be a factor in acquiring a musical education in this novel but time-tested manner. Personal helps for which arrangements now are being made, will be available to every one. There is accomplishment that is more appreciated than ability to play a piano. Here is your chance to acquire this accomplishment.

TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS

The Melody Way lessons appearing weekly in The Post-Crescent will be given at the same time to hundreds of pupils in Appleton public schools through the regular school work. The lessons will be printed weekly so there will be close cooperation between the work in the schools and in the homes. The lessons in this paper are provided through the cooperation of The Post-Crescent with Dr. E. L. Baker, supervisor of music in public schools of Appleton; A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, and Irving Zuelke of the Zuelke Music Co.

COOLIDGE'S ORDER TO OHIO SENATOR OF LITTLE EFFECT

Fess Still Whoops It Up for Cal and Political Wiseacres
Wonder

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—It was perhaps time that someone smothered the lion. Simon D. Fess, the ebullient senator from Ohio, and President Coolidge was in a better position to do so than any one else.

The Hon. Simeon had become a veritable Merry Andrew of politics. It was almost impossible to pick up a morning, afternoon or Sunday newspaper without discovering that the man was at it again. When a man with the Hon. Simeon's close contact with the White House spent most of his waking hours whooping up a Coolidge boom, it was natural to suspect that his outgivings had something like tacit approval from on high.

Some writers seem to believe the verbal spanking Mr. Coolidge gave Fess on his last visit to the White House was tantamount to a definite announcement that Mr. Coolidge positively would not accept renomination. Others have a contrary opinion.

Despite the fact that the president had spoken heartily he did not go so far as to tell Fess that he would not accept renomination. And when Fess quoted him as saying, "It won't work out that way, I won't be nominated," it did not appear that Mr. Coolidge planned personal intervention to see that it didn't "work out that way." In short, it continues to appear that Mr. Coolidge intends to let matters take their course.

CAN USE "LANGUAGE"

One wonders whether the president used any good old-fashioned Cuss-words in his talk with Senator Simeon. It is certainly has no reputation for profanity, and it is not commonly told that he has employed it even under provocation during his occupancy of the White House, but he has a command of some of the more conventional expressions and on rare occasions as governor of Massachusetts was heard to employ them in moments of irritation.

Many of us, in our unthinking way, sometimes forget that the president is the commander-in-chief of the army and navy. Officers of these two services, however, bear the fact in mind and sometimes are reminded of it forcibly.

The recent experiences of General Charles P. Summerall, the army's chief-of-staff, may not have been adequately explained. Summerall was peremptorily ordered back from the Pacific coast by his commander-in-chief after he was reported to have criticized the administration for failing to relieve the bad army housing conditions.

It appears that the general was speaking at a private luncheon, where no reporters were supposed to be present, and was explaining to a group of Californians why the army couldn't establish an important base in their territory.

FRIEND IN DAVIS

Everything would have been all right if he hadn't referred to the "administration," as he was said to have done in published reports that found their way out of the meeting. On arriving back in Washington, Summerall was kept waiting several days before he saw the president. But Secretary of War Davis called at the White House in the meantime and is supposed to have made the explanations for the chief-of-staff.

Admiral Magruder of the Philadelphia navy yard, who stirred up so much fuss with his criticism of the navy a few weeks ago, was in the capital the other day. He had only one complaint on this visit and that was Navy building. The admiral thinks that the telephone operators back at his navy yard ought to be paid more money. They work like lightning, the admiral says, and he appreciates their speed and efficiency.

Admiral Magruder, take it from your correspondent who met him for the first time on his last visit, is one of the best.

*QUESTION PUPILS ON SCHOOL INFLUENCES

Seek Opinions Concerning Moral Conditions and Conduct in High School

Opinions of Appleton high school students concerning moral conditions and conduct will be obtained by means of questionnaires, according to H. H. Hebble, principal of the high school. Similar questionnaires have been sent to 60 high schools throughout the state.

The facts compiled will be taken to the Milwaukee Student-Teacher conference Nov. 3 and 4 by the two delegates who will represent the high school. The problems and possible solutions will be discussed at group meetings on Thursday, Nov. 3. A code prepared by the students will be adopted at the conference.

Some of the influences given the students to check are: Evil companions, immoral motives, personal weakness, cheap literature, parents or home influences, teacher's attitude, environment. Other questions are: Check the three most regrettable practices of boys in the school—drinking, smoking, shooting craps, gambling, attitude toward girls, drinking, cheating, bad manners, loafing, stealing, keeping late hours, telling vulgar stories, defacing school property, automobile parties.

Check three factors tending to develop high moral qualities among pupils—teachers' ideals, school organization, certain pupils, school organization, athletics, high standard of classroom work, student government, three best things school has done for pupils personally—given an education, developed character, promoted self-discovery, developed spirit of loyalty, given social culture, developed spirit of co-operation, developed right attitude toward work.

Check three worst things school has done for pupils personally—made lazy, undermined health, developed snobbishness, bad habits, produced evil associations, poor companions, disrespect to

STAGE And SCREEN

"WAY OF ALL FLESH" RANKS
AMONG GREATEST, SAYS
ROB IN CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Admirers of Emil Jannings and those who feared the worst when the great actor came to America may well indulge in a loud shout of thanks when they view his first American-made movie, "The Way of All Flesh." For Jannings has suffered not a whit by his American venture. His genius has been preserved even in the midst of Hollywood's commercialism. He is still the greatest character actor of his time, and "The Way of All Flesh" is one of the greatest movies ever made.

While he spent the larger portion of his life abroad, Jannings is, of course, American-born, having first seen the light of day in Brooklyn. The fact that he has been equally as successful here as there thus has added importance.

Few people of the stage or screen have inspired as much curiosity as he. For years he remained away from his native land, a more or less mysterious figure—his mighty screen characterizations emerging every now and then to startle Americans who thought they knew how to make and act in pictures. For years, too, he consistently refused offers to come forth. He says himself that he wanted to come, but was afraid, for he had seen many of the foremost stars of the countries across the seas come to America and become artistic failures.

In "The Way of All Flesh" he is August Schilling, an honest, industrious and morally clean bank cashier in Milwaukee. For more than a score of years he lives an exemplary life in the Wisconsin city, administering precise discipline to both his clerical staff and to his children at home and getting perfect happiness and satisfaction out of the respectability that his mode of working and living brings.

He is humane and tolerant in the exercise of his principles always, too, giving the office boy good advice when he first falls into temptation and not whipping his favorite son for accidentally breaking his wife's sugar bowl.

In the evening after the day's work is done, Schilling goes home to good German cooking, the wholesome smiles of his spouse and the prattle of his children. And after the family music hour and prayers he goes to bowl and drink beer with his friends—temperate always, even in his beer drinking.

Then one day his bank sends him to Chicago with a wallet full of valuable securities to dispose of and on the train he falls a victim to the wiles of a blonde charmer. Like a babe in the woods, Schilling is captured by the fierce wind of passion. He drinks too much champagne and spends a wild night in her company. And—as it usually is with good people who take their first false step—the consequences are awful to behold.

SPEAKER DESCRIBES LIFE IN S. AFRICA

Dr. McCord Says Zulus Are Most Powerful and Brainy
People in Africa

Life among the Zulus of South Africa was described by Dr. J. B. McCord of Durham, N. C., at a dinner Friday evening at the Congregational church.

Dr. McCord has established the only medical school for natives in the entire union of South Africa. Ten nurses are in training all the time in the hospital nurses' training school.

"The Zulus are the aristocrats of Africa," said the speaker. "and are the brainiest and most powerful race on that continent." Most all the evangelistic work is done by the natives and not by the missionaries, according to Dr. McCord. Primary schools are taught by natives who have received their training in the normal schools.

Although the Zulus are superstitious and believe in witchcraft after they become Christians, they are very efficient both in teaching and preaching. Missionary work at Carter, N. Dakota, was described by the Rev. George M. Turner, a pioneer in the newest methods in home mission work, who told of the hardships suffered by people who live 20 miles from a railway.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. E. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets regularly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c. adv.

Schumann-Heink Reassures Stage-Struck Radio Peer

Like the great mother she is, Schumann-Heink greeted Grahame McNamee when they met in Cleveland recently.

Cleveland—Sixteen years ago Grahame McNamee, peerless announcer on the red network of the National Broadcasting Company, sang in concert with Schumann-Heink, the world renowned contralto. Schumann-Heink, of course, was the attraction.

The other day they met again, while McNamee was appearing temporarily in vaudeville in Cleveland and the great singer was preparing for perhaps her last concert in this city. It was an inspiring reunion, for Schumann-Heink has beloved memories of the announcer.

It was he who saved her on her first broadcast, when he told her to "believe in yourself," rather than read what had been prepared for her. And it was she, this time, who consoled him and instilled confidence in him for his first vaudeville venture.

"I'm glad it's over," said this man who has addressed more people than anyone else in the country through his work as announcer. The reason was he got stage fright, despite his experience as concert singer and despite his perfect equanimity at the mike. Yet, while his knees shook, he talked without a tremor of his broadcast experience and ended by displaying his abilities as a singer. His "Road to Mandalay" was well sung. Still—his announcing is far better!

JURY AWARDS CAR TO LAWYER AS HIS FEE

Attorney Claimed Machine
Was Given Him as Pay for Services

A jury in the lower branch of municipal court Saturday morning awarded Glen W. Barto, a Neenah testifier, an automobile which he claimed had been given him as a fee by one member of the firm of the Valley Auto company, Neenah. Two other members of the firm claimed the third member had no right to give this car away and they had the machine seized. Barto secured a writ of replevin and the machine was taken and held by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke.

Barto, who was represented by J. L. Johns, local attorney, claimed he had received the automobile from J. L. Darnosky, a member of the Valley Auto company. Mr. Darnosky testified that he had given the machine to Barto. The other members of the firm, Norbert Keefe and Paul Loernich, declared the machine had been sold and therefore Darnosky had no right to give it away. Darnosky and the two partners had been having some trouble before the car was given away. The testimony showed District Attorney Frank B. Keefe of Winnebago county represented Loernich and Keefe.

The jury deliberated about 20 minutes and brought in a verdict awarding the car to Barto. Members of the jury were Henry Weiss, 311 E. Hancock-st., Rudolph Pasch, 425 W. Winnebago-st., Lawrence Koss, 202 E. Wisconsin-ave., P. A. Ziegler, 1102 N. Lawrence-st.

Drunk Pays Fine
John Green, Menasha was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness. He was arrested by Officer Earl Thomas on N. Appleton st. at 10:30 Sunday night. Egypt is reducing college fees.

DEFEAT BY ILLINOISJARS MICH HOPES

Illinois Now Leads Big Ten With Minnesota Almost on Par

Chicago —(P)— "Hail to the Victors" Michigan's battle hymn had a hollow sound Monday. The Wolverines, who had known the word defeat only by hearsay all season, were back at Ann Arbor, still dazed by the 14-0 defeat Illinois gave them Saturday. The whipping of Michigan and the subjugation of Chicago by Ohio State scrambled the Western Conference standing so thoroughly that Monday only one team — Illinois — remained unbeaten and untied. Minnesota, by beating Wisconsin, ranked next to Illinois, having lost no game but having her record marred by a tie game with Indiana. Chicago and Michigan each with two victories and one defeat are next in the list but the standings of these teams is certain to be altered by the end of the week, for they play each other Saturday. It will be the first game between these schools in seven years. Illinois tackles Iowa at Iowa City Saturday in its third straight conference game. Iowa has been beaten both by Ohio State and Minnesota. Northwestern and Purdue are to clash at Lafayette, Ind., in the third conference game for each team, with both "Pest" Welch and "Cotton" Wilcox of the Purdue back field ready for action. In two nonconference games against Harvard and Montana State, Welch has shown brilliant running and dodging but in two conference appearances his rushes have been held to a maximum of nine yards. Wilcox is just recovering from a splintered heel bone which has kept him out since the opening day of the season. The Minnesota — Notre Dame meeting at South Bend shares the midwestern spotlight with the conference games. Minnesota has settled down to the business of piling up touchdowns. Wisconsin held the gofers to two markers Saturday, but when Jostling couldn't smash through, he tossed a pass with the same result. Eastern invasion by conference teams are at an even break now, with one victory and one defeat at the Harvard stadium. Next Saturday Ohio goes to Princeton to try its rejuvenated lineup against the Tigers. Indiana entertains Michigan State and Wisconsin plays Grinnell, with polishing up for later conference contests.

BADGER PROSPECTS FOR FUTURE ROSY

Fighting Cards Have Grinnell, Iowa, and Chicago Still to Play

Milwaukee —(P)— Wisconsin's fighting Badgers, after holding the "Thundering Herd" of Minnesota to a single touchdown victory 13-7 Monday looked on the remaining three games of their 1927 season with rose-colored glasses. Grinnell College of Iowa and Chicago complete the Badgers' card on the following Saturdays. Coach Thistlethwaite is pointing his men for the Hawkeys contest on Nov. 12 which will be the feature attraction of the annual Wisconsin homecoming celebration. Grinnell college was no match for Marquette's Golden Avalanche and fell before a superior team here Saturday 31-0, the Blue and Gold thus paying a debt for last year's unexpected reverse at the hands of the Iowans. Lawrence college of Appleton after losing three consecutive games now looks on the season as a complete success after humbling Beloit college its old rivals, 19 to 6, before a big crowd of Lawrence homecomers at Appleton. It was Beloit's fourth consecutive Midwest conference defeat and the downstaters have yet to register a win in the conference. In another homecoming contest Carroll college of Waukesha overcame Ripon 12-6 in a spectacular battle replete with thrills from beginning to end. The Waukesha eleven clinched the championship of the Wisconsin-Illinois conference, with the victory. Milwaukee Normal, playing an uphill game, tied Oshkosh normal at Oshkosh after the home team had led at the half, 13 to 7. The Milwaukeeans tied the score in the third period and threatened again in the final period but lacked the final punch for a victory. Whitewater Normal rolled over Platteville in an impressive display of power 44-0. The Lacrosse Normal team invaded Dubuque, Iowa, and eked out a tie score in the final minutes of play with Columbia college 13-13. Columbia led at the half 13 to 0. Cornell college of Mount Vernon, Iowa, remained on the top rung in the Midwest conference by scoring a 3-0 victory over its ancient rivals Coe college at Cedar Rapids. Carleton entrenched itself in second place with an unexpected 33 to 0 triumph over Hamline.

E. GREEN BAY SWAMPS MARINETTE MEN, 24-0

Marinette—After holding East Green Bay to one touchdown and that in the last five minutes of the first half, Marinette's football machine fell apart in the second half of the game here Saturday and East scored three more times, the final score being 24-0. All the place kicks after touchdowns failed. Grabbing a punt in the last five seconds of the first half, Shekore raced 70 yards for a touchdown. His feat was duplicated by Capt. Klaus of Green Bay, when he cut back through the line on a straight formation and ran 60 yards for a touchdown. After line plays had brought the ball within scoring distance, Shekore and Klaus, behind perfect interference, ran for touchdowns, Shekore running 19 yards and Klaus 10 yards.

East completely outplayed the locals and by virtue of their win remain undefeated in the conference race. People in the United States and Canada eat an average of 200 apples each every year.

U. S. Survey Shows 16 Sets Requiring Batteries or Socket Power Attachment, to 1 A. C. Set on Hand

A SURVEY made by the department of Commerce under the direction of Marshall T. Jones, shows that there are something more than 600,000 sets for battery operation in the hands of dealers throughout the country and only 38,000 A. C. sets—a ratio of about 16 to 1. The Batteryless sets and power amplifiers are among the chief advances in the offerings to the public this year.

JACK LOCKWILL'S FOREST RANGERS

"You've eased my mind," admitted Willie. "I thought it was some of the spooky stuff they said we'd run into around here." "Keep still," requested Jack, who had produced notebook and pencil. "It's Morse, and I'm getting it. He's repeating now." A few minutes later, he showed them what he had deciphered: "The one who hunts the snowy deer, to death himself is very near."

"That's another warning for us," said Jack. "But how did that man up there find out we came to look for the white deer?" wondered McNally. "That's odd, I'll say!"

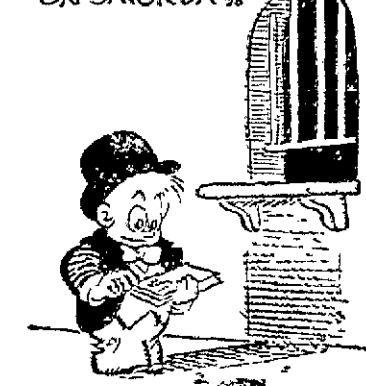

Stories of a white deer that had been seen in the woods near Enchanted Mountain had brought Jack and his chums into this wild region. But, as Lockwill had said, it was not their object to kill the deer. They hoped to get a snapshot of the creature with a camera carried in one of the packs. Now, again moving onward, they were unaware that Old Hunchy was following them.

NORTHERN FOX FARM
SOON TO SEND FIRST
SHIPMENT OF PELTS

27 Foxes Now Owned by Corporation; Stock Increasing Rapidly

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The first harvest of pelts will soon be ready for shipment by the Northwestern Wisconsin Fur Farm corporation, located at the cut off of the Wolf river. Its manager is W. A. Kuntz. The farm consists of 300 acres, a large percentage of which is marshland which is over-run by muskrats, also a portion of the farm's venture in fur raising. Only a few rats are being pelted this fall, the stock being allowed to multiply during these first few years.

The farm has been operation for nearly two years and it is already stocked with 27 fine animals, besides the pelts, which are now on the stretching boards. A valuation of $1,000 is said to be a low price per pair for the foxes of both the solid black or full silver so highly prized by furriers. The valuation of the skins whether black or silver is regulated nearly entirely by the modes of fashion, though individuals prefer either one or the other regardless of the mode of the moment.

Mr. Kuntz is in complete charge of the breeding and care of the foxes. He said ideal conditions call for sandy soil which makes for sanitation, distance from sources of contagion, and careful feeding. The animals are fed beef, eggs and milk and bread in summer, and in winter horsemeat is fed.

ARISTOCRAT FOX
Among the celebrities on the farm is Campbell Prince, an importation from Prince Edward Island. He is a beautiful solid black fox shipped here with his silver mate from the northern climate. This aristocrat has established himself as an excellent breeder and his disposition is of the best.

The manager has an original system of naming the foxes. Each pair of puppies is named after a letter of the alphabet. Adrian and Adeline are from the first year's litter of puppies, while the later litters will be named accordingly.

Mr. Kuntz relates an interesting story which is intimately a part of the fox life at the farm. Campbell's Prince and his pretty little mate arrived from Canada shortly after their first litter of puppies had been raised. It is a strange trick of fox nature that this mother fox, in the wild state, before giving birth to her litter always returns to the den in which her first born came into the world. So it was that the mate of Campbell Prince could not content herself in her new home. She continually carried her young out of the hut, bit at the wires, fought madly day and night to get out of the enclosure in her dumb response to that calling of nature.

CAT-MOTHERED FOXES
"I found her puppies cold one night, and two of them died," said Mr. Kuntz. "I knew that if I did not take matters into my hands at once we were due to lose a valuable litter. By telephoning around the countryside all one day I at last located a cat that had recently given birth to kittens. I got the cat, and in a few several days to gentle her and get her used to the strange surroundings. Meanwhile my wife and I were sitting up nights giving the little foxes drops of milk every hour to keep alive that last spark of life. At last I dared take away some of the kittens and place the fox pups in their places. It worked. The little fellows lived and after a day or two I took away another kitten and added the third fox. As they grew I subtracted kittens until the puppies were the cat's only family and she grew attached to them and didn't mind. She took care of them long after they were larger than she was. They would play with her, pull her around and the way she would respond to their barks was amusing. No matter where she was she would hurry to them."

HARVEST FESTIVAL HELD AT NEW LONDON CHURCH

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The annual Harvest Festival was observed at the Congregational church Sunday morning, as a demonstration of the gratefulness for the fruits of the harvest fields. The Rev. Henry P. Freeling used as his sermon the parable of the Sower and emphasized that the soil, rather than the sower or the seed, is the governing factor. Musical numbers were rendered by the church choir. A large horn of plenty, containing an abundance of fruit, was placed before the altar in decorative suggestion of the day's subject. The committee in charge was composed of Mesdames Herbert Ritchie, F. J. Pfeiffer and Emil Oestreich.

On Wednesday evening the church will hold its annual harvest fruit and vegetable sale in the church parlors. Produce will be donated by the church members and will be sold on that evening. Arrangements for the sale are in charge of the decorating committee, including Mrs. F. L. Zaig, Mrs. E. N. Caled, Albert Zerrmer, Herbert Ritchie and Benjamin Hart.

"Dear And Dough" May Be
Secret Password Of Deer

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A chapter of the Ancient and Secret Order of the Deer, a gentlemen's club of rank and exclusiveness, was recently organized among a set of Fourth ward young men of ages from 11 to 13. It was probably named for the deer because of the close relationship to the doe, for the by-laws show that it takes much dough to crash the gates of membership, and for getting out again. It costs a fine to be seen with a girl, and to be seen with one more than once costs the member his membership. It costs anywhere from 3 to 25 cents to "mistreat any dumb animal," to "smoke in the club or anywhere like that," and the lack of money won't save the delinquent either, for there is scrubbing and cleaning up and fixing things. The membership includes Warren Shoemaker, president; Robert Putnam, vice president; William Garot, secretary-treasurer, and John Garot, sheriff-deputy; William Karuhn, Irving Smith, Gorman Robert and Fritz Krause, Howard Finger and George Barlow. Hi Jinx Von Stonteltz, two years old and a terror to cats, is mascot and outer guard.

It was this group of boys that recently staged a backyard homecoming, which was a huge success socially and netted the "gang" $837. Morris McDermott, an erstwhile member, whose other titles of good-fellowship are "Mickie" and "Pickie," loaned his back yard for the event which was advertised "to last all day until we gotta go home at night." Pickie's mother loaned a few things like lemons, cake, sugar, cookies, portiers, ironing board for part of a counter, and other mothers came forward nobly.

Arrows, painted with the best white enamel on side walks, pointed the way. Property owners are still marveling at the durability of that white enamel. Spectators were greeted by a high class band seated upon the garage roof, while a soloist of entrancing high notes sang between shifts of duty at selling lemonade and auctioning off one black puppy and one white rooster. A prize fight under cover of a tent waxed so exciting and the combatants waxed so heated in their fistie encounter that they fought themselves completely out of the tent, fought themselves out of the sight of the spectators who were forced to follow and part the pugilists who lay clinched in tearful embrace. One of the spectators explained that they would have to leave then anyway because the seats capized and there was, because of the size of the tent, sitting room only.

WET SUMMER PLEASES PARIS UMBRELLA MEN

Paris—(P)—Amid all the complaining about poor business that has gone on in France this year, one class of men have been singularly prosperous. They are those who make and sell umbrellas. Never, they say, has business been so booming in what is still academically known as summertime.

This year, from a climatic standpoint, France had almost no summer at all. May was fine, but May is spring. After that it began to rain—and it kept on raining all through June, July and August.

Being unusually in demand, umbrellas went up in price. Even an unpretentious one cost five dollars or more.

While enriching themselves, the umbrella men kept their sense of humor—and gratitude. Their syndicate had printed and distributed 1,200 lithographs of General Delcambre, the French weather man.

The room in Buckingham Palace is fixed up as a dentist's office. An automatic distress signal broadcaster for ships and airplanes has been invented. It transmits S O S signals, the ship's call letters and the location.

SHORTAGE OF FUNDS LIKELY TO HINDER FLOODING OF MARSH

Commission Claims That Conservation Funds Will Not Allow Work

Madison—(P)—Even if the attorney general's department decides that the state may legally reconstruct Horicon marsh and public hearings, the last of which is to be held next Wednesday show favor for the proposal, there is no certainty that the marsh will again become a reality because of shortage in conservation funds.

The conservation commission, with a representative of the attorney general's office as unofficial observer will hold the last of the public hearings Nov. 2 at Horicon on reflooding the previous game and fish refuge and hunting and fishing grounds.

Then the attorney general and his aids must determine whether the state's reconstruction of the marsh is a public improvement in which the constitution forbids the state to engage. This point being decided the question of whether the land really belongs to the state must be decided. The federal land grants must be looked over and dates of the land's first flooding and length of the period during which the land was covered must be determined to establish property right.

VOTED $250,000

Should all go well with the state in a probable court test of these points and decision be given that the marsh may be reconstructed legally, the legislature has appropriated $250,000 to reflood the marsh, plus $10,000 to build a dam for this purpose. The $250,000 is spread over ten years in annual appropriations of $25,000.

But the conservation commission claims that the last legislature appropriated more out of conservation funds than will be in those funds in the next few years, that when the $250,000 out of the general fund is exhausted it will have nothing to keep up the marsh, or carry on the Horicon conservation work.

The new conservation commission, when it first took office, estimated that there would be at the end of the 1927-28 biennium a deficit of $187,937 in conservation funds if all the monies appropriated by the legislature were to be used. This July 1 balance of $480,617 plus estimated income for the first fiscal year of $468,250 made $944,867 available for the first year of the biennium, the commission said. It then planned to reduce the $907,405 appropriation for the first year by expenditures of $725,000, leaving a balance of $219,867 for the year, which, plus estimated income of $490,250, would leave $710,117 for the second year. The conservation department pledged itself to cut down the $715,707 appropriated to expenditures of $650,000 to leave a balance of more than $65,000 at the end of the biennium.

CARE FOR HATCHERIES

These expenditures take care of such current works as maintenance of fish hatcheries, building new ones, paying wardens and other conservation officers and other current expenditures of the department, the balance being figured as a safety fund in case expenditures were forced over the listed amounts.

Addition of incidental and maintenance costs on Horicon marsh would cripple this and future financial plans, so that either regular conservation work or the marsh would suffer, according to the commission office. So that there is doubt if the marsh after surviving legal questions will weather the financial storm.

Seton Karr, the trapper, said recently that the African savage is the happiest of mankind.

Haskins Answers Question About First State Paving

The contract for the first street pavement in Milwaukee was let in 1854 and during that year East Water street from Huron to Wisconsin streets was finished with a substantial stone macadam, a reader of the Post-Crescent was informed by the Appleton Post-Crescent information bureau at Washington, D. C., of which Frederick J. Haskins is director. The first section of wood pavement laid in Milwaukee was on West Water street from Chubb to Grand-ave. Mr. Haskins further stated:

Another reader of the Post-Crescent was informed that the 1924 income tax returns showed that there were 75 persons in the United States paying an income tax on $1,000,000 or over that year.

Any reader of the Post-Crescent can obtain information on almost any subject by sending questions to the Post-Crescent information bureau, Frederick J. Haskins, director, Washington, D. C. A two-cent stamp or a stamped self-addressed envelope should be enclosed in the letter with your question.

EXPECT BIG LOGGING YEAR IN WISCONSIN

Rhineland — Extensive logging operations will be carried on in upper Michigan this winter, according to present indications. Several large lumber concerns will conduct camps and there will also be many logging camps. While no estimate of the timber cut can be obtained it will probably average well with that of any recent year. A number of saw mills in this part of the state will operate day and night throughout the winter.

Are You Meeting Old Friends You Haven't Seen For Years?

And do they exclaim, "Why, Marian, you don't look a day older than you did twenty years ago! You and your daughter would pass for sisters anywhere."

Or do they look at you with ill concealed amazement and say to each other as soon as you are out of hearing, "Did you ever see anyone age as Marian has? Her skin looks like parchment." Of course you can't hear them say unpleasant things like this, but you can read their admiration or their pity in their faces.

It isn't necessary to let your skin grow old and unlovely. A facial massage once a week works wonders in keeping it soft and fine and rosy, and it's as soothing as it is beautifying. Why not call the Beauty Shop for an appointment?
